

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A tension board comprises a bow member that can deform resiliently to apply lateral force to a workpiece pushed between it and the fence of a table saw, and that may have an associated tension gauge element. Combination tools may 5 employ two bow members having different force-generating characteristics, an array of feather members, and a single contact finger.